Following the spread of Covid-19 globally, Churches of all denominations have started suspending services voluntarily, while others are being forced to do so by Government measures. In the Catholic Church, faithful lay, religious, and clergy are all looking for creative ways to provide spiritual support and access to sacraments.

Pontifical University of the Holy Cross's Program of Church Management is bringing together an international team for a webinar to address how to seize the crisis as an opportunity of grace and for grace to shine forth.
